- 33, 34 & 35.....Entering Uhrwiller
- 36 & 37.....Houses
- 38 to 42.....Uhrwiller Protestant Church & memorial to victims of two world wars that is on the church grounds.
- 43.....School
- 44.....Street
- 46 to 51.....Uhrwiller cemetery. An interesting place. It is divided in two by a small paved road with protestants on one side and Catholics on the other. (There are far more protestant graves at the moment). The graves are marked with modern marble tombstones very much like ours and then the grave is covered by a large marble slab. Names can be added to the tombstone or slab as more family members die and take the place of those who have done the "dust to dust" bit. Photo 49 shows a new grave. Photo 50 shows the marble slab that was removed for the burial and will be replaced when the dirt settles. The last picture is of a slab that contains a planting area for flowers. It was also decorated with little Easter items....bunnies, chicks and eggs. They love their Easter decorations and they look just like what we would have.
- 52.....Le Mairie
- 53.....A poster at city hall promoting home health care.
- 54.....Garden area at city hall
- 55.....A father and son playing ball in front of their home.
- 56.....An old well turned into a planter.
- 57 & 58.....Street scenes.
- 59 & 60.....A beautifully painted eave of a house & close-up.
- 61 thru 64.....Garage doors. In Uhrwiller, especially, they take great pride in their garage doors. Most are wood in some graphic design with matching front doors.
But one was a fresco and absolutely beautiful.

A tall, grey stone monument stands in front of a building with a large window and a door. The monument is inscribed with text in French. The top part of the monument is a tall, narrow rectangular block. Below it is a wider, shorter block. The base of the monument is a large, rectangular block. The monument is surrounded by green foliage and trees. The building in the background has a light-colored wall and a dark window. The door is made of wood and has a small arched window above it. The scene is brightly lit, suggesting a sunny day.
